

Helsinki

Planning tool for Phenomenon-based Learning

Printable A4

What Phenomenon?

Name of the phenomenon:

What do you already know?

What do you want to learn?

♥ X ✓ ♥ ? ✓ !
~ X ♥ ✓ ! ♥ !

Initial Feelings about the Phenomenon

What do you find annoying?

What do you find inspiring?

What do you find intriguing?

What does not make sense?

Getting Inspired by the Phenomenon

Draw a mind-map/write or make a comic strip that describes everything that you already know and understand to be part of the phenomenon.

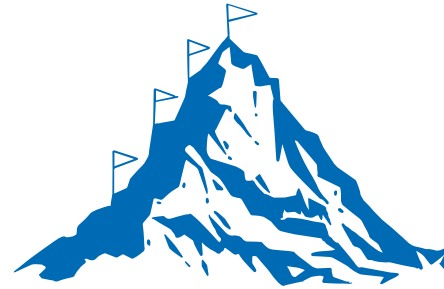

Find a document, picture, piece, poem, newspaper article, podcast, interview, game or anything that inspires you to learn more about the phenomenon.

A large, empty, rounded rectangular box with a white background, intended for drawing a mind-map, writing, or creating a comic strip.

Learning Goals

Make a mind-map or list down your learning objectives.
What do you want to learn about this phenomenon?

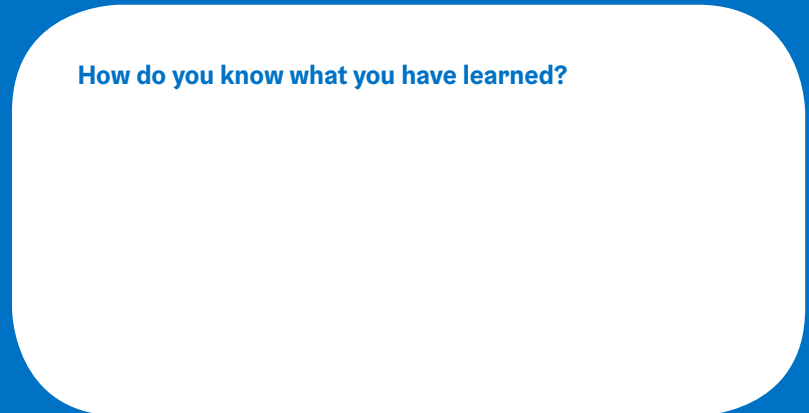

What is the main goal of the phenomenon? What does it mean to you?

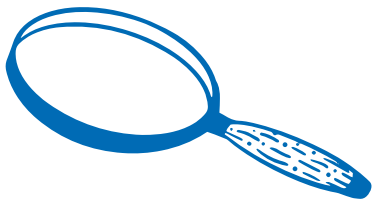

Why should you achieve the main goal?

How do you know what you have learned?

Seeking Information and Building Knowledge

What do you want to study and why?

List five different ways of seeking information.

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.

List down words that help you find information.

How do you know if the information you found is reliable and valid?

Think of the human senses. How are they used for seeking information and building knowledge?

Sharing the Learning Process

If you were the only person who understands your study topic, how could you make others interested in the topic?

Complete the following sentences regarding your learning process/study topic.

The best thing about my study was when...

The worst thing about my study was when...

Did you know that...

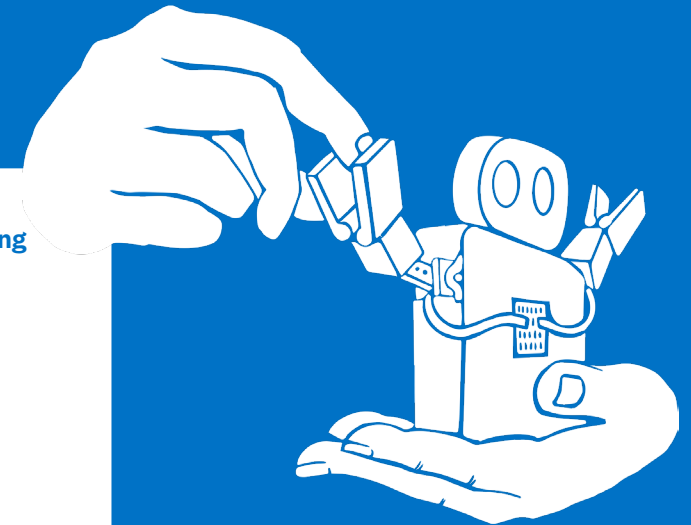

I found it funny...

I was upset...

It came as a surprise to me that...

I did not understand at all...

I found it extremely difficult to learn...

If the phenomenon were a superhero, joke, magazine, robot, work of art, event or something else, what would it be?